DIAMOND DUST.

The Orioles seem to be safely perched at the top of the second division.

Warden is recovering the use of his leg, and is being played regularly at first by Miamopolis.

McGuire's many years in the service seems to have added rather than detracted from his playing abilities.

Chicago and Cincinnati seem to have contracted a retrograde motion, and are several points from the flagpole.

Swain, formerly a member of the Senators' pitching staff, has been given notice of release by the Milwaukee manager.

Defeats by Baltimore and Washington has caused the baseball prophet to put a different rating on Chicago's present prospects.

Tucker is doing good work for the Cleveland Club. For a man who has been relegated to the "basement" class, Tom is a wonder.

An exchange says that the Washington fans are howling for the return of Wagner. This howling has not yet availed the echoes around National Park.

Manager Loftus of the Columbus Club, has traded Crooks to Buffalo for Outfielder Pickering. It is thought that Crooks will manage the Bison aggregation.

Young Stagle keeps up his great playing in center field, and in a couple of years will hold the position now occupied by Keeler in the baseball world of today.

A brother of Herman Loop has broken into baseball. He has signed with the Tauton Club, of the New England League, and will play an infield position.

Ball, who was on Hamilton's staff of players last season, and in a couple of years will hold the position now occupied by Keeler in the baseball world of today.

Padden is one of the best infielders in the League, and his batting average is improving with each game. As captain of the team, he is watch-

WORK OF EASTERN CLUBS IN THE WEST

Thirty-five Victories and Only Sixteen Defeats.

Excellent Record Made by the Washington Team.

The Senators Hit the Ball Hard and Won Six Out of the Eight Games Played.

The first invasion of the West this season by the Eastern clubs has demonstrated that the teams representing the wild and woolly region are very much outclassed at the present writing, the East having won 35 games to 16 for the West.

A glance at the table below giving the runs, hits, and errors made by the clubs of the two sections during the series readily makes apparent why the Eastern teams gave the Westerners such a drubbing, the hit column showing a difference of 168 safe drives in favor of the former, while the error column also gives the Easterners credit for having done slightly better fielding than their rivals.

It was to be expected that the Champions would get into their stride as the hot weather rolled around, and that the Superbs would more than hold their own, but the magnificent record made by the Senators has been the sensation of the trip, and a source of great gratification to the friends of the team. Brooklyn, Baltimore, and Philadelphia are the only clubs that have outbatted the Senators since they left home, and Manager Irwin is very much elated over the fact that his faith in the Senators as hitters has finally been rewarded.

What is causing grief in the hearts of the Western fans is the terrible slump of St. Louis and Cincinnati. Chicago, Pittsburgh, Louisville, and Cleveland were not expected to cut much of a figure in the race, but Tebeau and the Reds were figured among the possible pennant winners. The Reds have developed their yellow streak early in the season, and up to the date of the present writing the only club in the Eastern circuit, especially as they are not hitting the ball. The argument was advanced some time ago that very hard, as their great fielding would prevent their opponents from scoring very often, and not many runs would be needed to win. That fielding the Western teams, but the story reads differently when you look at the error column below. St. Louis being charged with more misplays during the recent meeting than any other club in the League. Not a single Western team was able to land half of the games played. St. Louis gets credit for the largest number of errors among the Westerners, and in the account of a game being forfeited to them when they had the short end of the score.

The weakness of the Quakers in the box was handily made manifest yesterday, by defeating Cleveland yesterday, however, they managed to win a majority of their games. The heavy stickwork of Philadelphia will pull them out of many a hole, as it has done in the past, notwithstanding their lack of first-class twirling talent.

The Giants took a brace away from home and corralled their share of the edge things going around. But for the unfortunate incident in St. Louis which caused them to forfeit a game they would have won a majority of their games. As it is they have been satisfied with half a game. McGraw's Orioles have been playing good ball right along. While it is not thought there is any danger of dividing up among them either of the money prizes offered by a Monumental City paper, if they finish first, second, or third, they can be depended upon to play the game all the time and finish well up in the second division or well down in the first.

The number of games won and lost and the percentage made by each club from the date on which Washington opened in Pittsburgh, up to and including yesterday, is given in the following table, and it is a noteworthy fact that not a Western club is found among the first six:

Won. Lost. P. C.
Boston..... 7 1 .875
Brooklyn..... 11 1 .917
Cleveland..... 6 4 .600
Baltimore..... 6 3 .666
Philadelphia..... 3 3 .500
New York..... 5 5 .500
St. Louis..... 4 5 .444
Cincinnati..... 4 4 .500
Pittsburg..... 2 4 .333
Chicago..... 3 7 .300
Louisville..... 2 8 .200
Cincinnati..... 2 8 .200

The following table gives the runs, hits, and errors made by the clubs of the two sections, placed according to their batting strength during the series:

East. West.
Runs..... 111 49
Hits..... 110 26
Errors..... 105 26
Philadelphia..... 51
Washington..... 50

St. Louis..... 48

Word comes from Washington that there is a currency famine at the Treasury. The term "currency," as used by the department, means, in a broad way, paper money. Of course, gold and silver are the basis of the currency, but the supply, in currency, has quite as good a title to be so called as can be claimed for greenbacks or Treasury notes or any other form of paper circulation, but in official parlance a distinction is made. The gold reserve amounts to about $70,000,000, in coin and bullion, and now that the Philippine indemnity is paid and the receipts are running a little above the expenditures, the stock of currency has fallen to a very low point, and is still on the edge in spite of all the department can do for its enlargement. The narrowness of the matter lies in the fact that the American people have an inherent preference for paper money.

War Weapons.

The medical journals abroad publish the results of some recent experiments with the new automatic revolver, which is being adopted by the German army. The experiments in question were made on pine wood, on plates of iron, on a living horse, and on portions of human corpses, at distances varying from 11 to 300 yards, there being, however, but little difference between the effects on living and on dead material. The hole in iron five to ten millimeters in size, and decreases with the increase in distance, the aperture of exit being, however, slightly larger than that of the entrance. It seems that the effect of this weapon on the lung, hollow bones was exactly similar to that of the German infantry rifle at 3,000 to 6,000 feet—the "hole" was splintered in every case and in no instance did the projectile remain in the bone. The track of the bullet invariably formed a smooth channel without any other extraneous bone, and without any debris, while in the event of a bullet striking the skull it invariably passed through two human trunks, and only struck in the head through pine wood sixteen inches thick and three iron plates, each two millimeters thick.

SULLIVAN GIVES ADVICE.

Tells Jim Jeffries How to Defeat Fitzsimmons.

New York, May 30.—A letter has been received by Billy Fitzsimmons, manager of Jim Jeffries, from John Sullivan, the champion, who met Jeffries upon the latter's arrival in this city. Last, thinks a great deal of the young Californian. In his letter he says:

"Now, Billy, what I want to say is to have Jeff keep on top of that Kangaroo from start to finish. He has never had a chance at him in that manner; but still, at the same time, have Jeffries watch himself closely and leave no opening for his stomach or kidneys. Give that red-headed guy no chance for any solar plexus, which is all he needs to get a name for a punch in the pit of the stomach. I want Jim Jeffries to beat that fellow and he can do it, sure. When Jeffries gets in a good snarl at him never let him stop until he finishes him there and then, no matter if it is in the first or last round. It will be only play for him when it is all over. Let every American will be glad to say we have an American champion once more."

A postscript adds: "Jeff, old boy, think of the days when I was young and a wallow one of the steady left-handers across to the Kangaroo's anatomy. Have Billy steady you and bring the laurels to where they belong—America."

The possibility of Mrs. Fitzsimmons being in her husband's corner was received with much interest by the sports. All about it is known, and the Fitzsimmons would like to have his wife behind him. His wish is not likely to be granted for Al Brown states that under no circumstances will women be permitted to enter the building.

A POLITE CHICAGO ROBBER.

Chicago, May 30.—The up-to-date highwayman is a Chicago product. John Diebold was walking along Adams Street late at night when he was approached by a stranger.

"Rather wet evening," remarked the man. "The hour is late and you should be at home. I will interrupt you just a few moments." Before Diebold could make a reply he felt a chilly sensation at the point of his nose and discovered he was looking into the barrel of a revolver.

"The operation will take but a few moments, and I assure you it will be entirely painless," said the polite highwayman, unless you are disposed to object. But as there is now an understanding between us I do not expect serious trouble. Raise your hands just a little higher, and do not move an inch. I am a doctor, and Diebold was too surprised to speak, and his hands went into the air. The robber searched his pockets and removed a watch and $2. He then started away, but suddenly stopped, and in the following manner possible informed Diebold that he had forgotten something.

"The operation is not quite finished," he said, "and it will be necessary for me to remain with you a short while longer. Be patient, and you must remain perfectly quiet." Then he removed a gold ring from Diebold's finger and placed it in his pocket. "The operation was entirely successful," said the robber, as he juggled his revolver playfully, "and I am glad of it. You may now return to your home, and I hope you will sleep and rest well."

FURNISHED WITH A NEW NOSE.

Surgical Work Performed at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Baltimore, May 30.—Henry Burns, of this city, is the happy possessor of a new nose, contributed by his arm and leg. About eleven months ago Mr. Burns' original nose was removed because of a cancerous growth. In December last he entered Johns Hopkins Hospital and the work of constructing the new nose began.

A portion of flesh was taken from his leg and a section raised from his forearm. The two were fitted together somewhat in the form of a nose and fixed in place. The flesh of the arm was not detached, and the arm was bound across the face to keep the new nose in place.

Excused from parade of Paris from his waist up, with only one eye and a portion of his mouth visible, Burns lay for twenty-four days, while his arm and head grew together, and the nose, which was made of the flesh of the arm, was fixed in place. Burns is left the hospital with a better nose than he had originally possessed.

His sufferings while in the plaster of Paris cast were so terrible that at times he was nearly driven mad. He is sixty years of age, but the ordeal seems to have had no harmful effect upon his general health.

WHITEMAN FAILED TO APPEAR.

New York Officers Looking for Him With Another Warrant.

New York, May 30.—No one answered when the name of Alonzo J. Whiteman was called in the Jefferson Market police court yesterday. Detectives Sergeant Rely and Armstrong who had arrested him on Sunday morning on a warrant charging him with passing a worthless check were present and Sergeant Jacques, of the Hotel New York, who had been called to the court were on hand and ready to prefer other charges against Whiteman, but the former State Senator had apparently used the arm by Magistrate Pool's unusual course in accepting his cash bail of $500. Magistrate Pool declared Whiteman's bail forfeited.

The failure of Whiteman to appear seemed to irritate Magistrate Pool and he lost no opportunity of venting his wrath on the detectives. They did not fail to remind him that they had wanted him on Sunday morning that the prisoner would disappear if released on bail, and also that they had tried to tell him about several other charges pending against him. Whiteman, who had a damn what you said," the magistrate retorted.

Finally a new warrant was granted for Whiteman's arrest.

Sympathy for the Bouts Children.

Rapid City, S. D., May 30.—Lena and Nicholas Bouts, the two children who shot and killed their father, Frank Bouts, because he struck them, are attracting much interest here. The district court has issued an order removing the children from the jail and putting them in the care of the sheriff's wife. The girl is sixteen and small for her age, while the boy is but ten. There is general sentiment against trying the children for murder. Their father was known as a drunkard when drunk and is said to have been drinking the day his children shot him. The mother of the children is with them. The girl has a great liking for her check when the rifle with which she killed her father recoiled and struck.

Bobby Dobbs Defeats Driscoll.

London, May 30.—The fight between Bobby Dobbs and Jerry Driscoll took place last night at the National Sporting Club and was won by Dobbs in the fourth round. The match was for £100 a side and a purse of £100. The articles provided that the men should box fifteen rounds, each of three minutes duration at 10 stone 13 pounds.

MARINES FIRE ON BURGLARS.

Frustrate an Attempt to Rob the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

New York, May 30.—Three men made a bold attempt to loot the general storehouse in the Brooklyn navy yard yesterday morning. They were discovered by marines, who opened fire upon them as they fled. Two escaped over the wall at Little Street, and the third was captured. He sullenly said his name was Thomas Tierney, but would give no address. In the afternoon he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Morie and held for the grand jury.

River thieves have been unusually active in the navy yard recently. Nearly every bureau has suffered from them. They gain entrance by rowing around the coal dock or clambering over the wall at Little Street.

Marines have seen them several times, but they managed to escape on each occasion. The marine sentries watching the buildings had only clubs, but the thieves' visits became annoying at last that a few days ago the sentries were armed.

Private Werner, of the Marine Corps, was on duty near the Lyceum building, in Main Street, at 2 o'clock in the morning. The big general storehouse fronts on Main Street, and Werner thought he saw a man's figure near one of the windows. He ran up to it and found that the panes and woodwork of the window had been torn out.

Inside the building he saw the gleam of a lantern. He blew his whistle to alarm Private Flynn, who was on duty at the coal dock and entered. As he did so the lantern went out. Dray as his revolver Werner made a rush for the corner of the dark storehouse in which he had seen the light. As he did so there was a sound of hurrying feet. He turned and saw a man around a heap of boxes. This shut him off for a moment from view of the window. When he again caught sight of it he saw some one crawling out. He opened fire and the man disappeared.

Werner hurried to the window and jumped out. Three men were running across the street. They turned the corner of the Lyceum building and were lost to Werner's sight before Private Flynn made his appearance.

Flynn was running up from the coal dock, trying to head off the fugitives. Two of the men were far in the lead, but the third was rapidly overhauling them.

"Stop!" shouted Flynn. "Fire away!" answered one of the men in the lead. He and his companion had reached the wall. As they clambered up to the parapet Flynn and Werner opened fire. For a second one of the fellows straddled the wall and shouted to the man who was still racing across the yard: "Come on, there! You can beat him!"

Then he jumped to the street. His associate had preceded him. It was now a race between Flynn, who was running along the fence, and the fugitive, who was still in the yard. The latter saw that the marine would beat him and doubled back. As he did so he ran against Werner. He looked at the revolver which the marine held and then threw up his hands.

Flynn and Werner took him back to the general storehouse. They found outside the door six bags of copper, worth about $25. Inside a heavy copper, piled up so that it would be easily removed. The prisoner was taken to the guard house and locked up.

SOME MARYLAND FOLKLORE.

A Collection of Rules Warranted to Suit All Requirements.

(From the New York Sun.)
The Seventh Son of a Seventh Son who is also a Sunday Child, if occupying an ascertainable domicile anywhere in the United States, a resident of the "Eastern Shore" of Maryland, a long, narrow, fertile stretch of land between the Chesapeake Bay and the Delaware State line, and including Queen Anne, Kent, Cecil, Talbot, Carroll, and Dorchester counties.

In this region many old-fashioned folkloric customs and expressions still prevail, and the Baltimore Folklore Society has arranged to publish some of them in book form this year. Here are a few examples:

Never wash your face in water after dark. They are certain to disturb the spirits of the dead who wander abroad at night. Never wash your hands in water after dark. They are more liable thereby to become covered with warts. Never step on a railroad track on a walk of importance. It will be a failure if you do. A schoolboy who lets fall a book on his way to school will quickly put his foot on it before he picks it up or he will miss his lesson. The widespread superstition that if you spill salt you must throw some over your left shoulder, or you will have trouble, prevails along the Eastern Shore. The theory is that the salt thrown away goes into the eyes of the devil, who is lurking around. If you meet a foot-man on a road, go home and eat a good square meal and drink water, or something dreadful will happen. It is believed that evil spirits enter through the soles of your feet. Study the Chinese, who are said to be covered with warts, and you will see the truth. The lights along the shore when in trouble—a flickering light signifies an early end of good will fortune, already that the continuation, an extinguishing light an end to hope except at dawn. A light still burning at dawn means good fortune in abundance.

According to the records collected by Miss Whitney, the secretary of the Baltimore Folklore Society, this is one of the rhymes popular among children in rural Maryland and around civil:

God made me and made money;
God made the bee and the bee made honey;
God made Satan and Satan made sin;
God made a little hole to put the devil in.

Dig a hole in the ground, repeat this, and you never see the devil no more." Witches are supposed to make their homes at the crossing of two roads, and to appear there at midnight, but they cannot cross running water, and a stream of any sort always acts as a protection to even the most enterprising gnome or goblin, who will follow along the bank of a stream in preference to if you sweep your feet at night you sweep away your luck. If you look over your left shoulder at a "new moon" and then look for it over your right shoulder and clouds have meanwhile obscured it, the witch you made in flinching at the sight will come to pass. That is something to depend upon unhesitatingly.

To geographical rather than to political or social customs are due many of the quaint and peculiar customs which still tenaciously prevail on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The soil is generally sandy; streams are for the most part un navigable, except for the inland, and the very little railroad communication, and there are no cities of importance or small towns. The interests of these six Maryland counties are agricultural, and the most hopeless of the absence of means of intercommunication has been a bar to any new immigration, while the modest cost of life and sustenance keeps the population stationary. The Eastern Shore Marylanders trace their ancestry to English yeomen from the rural districts and many old English traditions and customs as to bell ringing, wells, running water, crops, and candles are still preserved among them.

The Dogs of Constantinople.

(From the Woman's Home Companion.)
I never saw so much mud, such unspeakably filthy streets, and so many dogs as Constantinople can boast, but nowhere have I seen them described in a satisfactory way—so that you know what to expect. I mean, in the first place, they hardly look like dogs. They have woolly tails like sheep. Their eyes are dull, sleepy, and utterly devoid of expression. Constantinople dogs have neither masters nor brains. No brains because no masters. Perhaps no masters because no brains.
